Unforgettable experiences at the Royal Academy of Arts.

Highlights

- When we were able to venture off into London and draw the antique architecture.
- The first gallery we went to had all of the bold and colorful paintings, my favorite was the realistic painting of the room and the chair as it is almost like a photo you took on your phone, however, it's painted.
- I quite enjoyed walking through the streets and seeing all the architecture.
- Finally, I like the Royal Arts Museum, my favorite was the painting in the second room as they had a vast majority of modern art and vintage.
- I also enjoyed the wooden sculpture in the third to last room as there was a lot behind it.

Styles of Art

Mall Galleries	Royal Academy
- Sculptures - Agriculture - Modern - Staged - Animals - Live art - Lively hood	- Contemporary style - Portraits - People - Textures - Bright - Sculptures - Storytelling

How I felt

When I first saw the artwork at the Mall Galleries I was really interested in the big flower paintings, I thought it was incredible how much they made the painting look like real life As if it was a photo. When I sat in the middle it was a bit overwhelming seeing all the great artworks, but then I started to enjoy them and see the true beauty behind the theme. When we went to the Royal Academy I instantly fell in love with how they laid everything out. The first room brought a lot of dramatic tension as you were based in the center of the room surrounded by portraits. Then you move on to see boats cascading throughout the middle of the room, surrounded by paintings of sailors, pirates, and people. I thought how was layout really made you focus on every single piece of art. Every room brought me different emotions.

What art would I buy?

Dreams and Reflections I

I would buy this painting because of how all the colors compliment each other and it reminds me of just relaxing in bed. I feel like this would look nice in my room above my bed, if it wasn't £26,500

I would rate all the experiences five stars as they went above and beyond in showcasing the artwork.

⭐⭐⭐⭐⭐